Swept Alleys With New Londoners

Visiting Duckpin Team Had No Chance Against Cleverness of Norwich Five-Broke Alley Records For Five Man Team, Rolling 512 Total-Combies the Individual Star.

Norwich duckpin rollers made it a cleanup on the Rose alleys on Monday night, when they met the New London five by defeating them three straight strings for a total pinfall of 1,454 to 11,294. This give the Norwich five a 161 mergin on the match, and as the New London pin splitters had hung up a lead of 72 over Norwich in three previous games, the home quintette more than made up the difference and took the series with a lead of 89 pins in the whole six games.

While they were at their work the Norwich team also cut down one of the Rose alley records, the five man total, which had been 511, but they just beat this by one pin in their second string, when they rolled 512.

The pins broke in bad form for the New London rollers, and Coffin was the only man to get into the century mark. On the Norwich team several century figures bloomed conspicuously, and the feature of the evening was the smashing rolling of Combies, who produced strikes and spares at almost any old time. His 124 single and 314 three string led both teams, and that single was good for the deally prize. The following scare shows just how badly the New London five were up against it in their reckless attempt to check the Norwich strong armed hurl-

Hanover, N. H., Jan. 23.—Dr. John W. Bowler, professor of hygiene and physical education and director of the gymnasium in Dartmouth college, will resume charge of the training of the Dartmouth football team next fall, eccording to an announcement made tocording to an announcement made to-night through the Dartmouth athletic council.

Dr. Bowler is a widely known athletic trainer and was successful in his work with the Dartmouth teams from 1901 to 1908. For the past two years he has devoted himself to faculty and gymnasium work and has had nothing to do with the training of the elevens.

HARVARD DROPS WEST POINT. Football Game is Scheduled With Princeton on Latter's Field.

The Harvard athletic committee in an official announcement states that the Crimson football team will play Princeton at Princeton on Saturday, Nov. 4, two weeks before the Tigers' game with Yale. It is further announced that arrangements have been made for a game with Dartmouth at Cambridge, Nov. 18, and that the annual game with Yale would be played in the Stadium on the 25th. While the full schedule was not given out, it was explained that since the Princeton game would be played at Princeton the regular game with West Point would be dropped for this year because of the team's inability to play more than

NERVOUS STOCK MARKET. Trading Dull at Prices Slightly Above

Trading Dull at Prices Slightly Above the Lowest.

New York, Jan. 23.—Two well defined movements of diverse character today gave the stock market a nervous and unsettled tone. Following the general advance in London, the local market opened strong and buoyant, with gains which in some cases carried stocks to naw high points for the year, but before midday this position was reversed. A selling movement, which gathered considerable volume, met with little resistance until all the morning's gains were marked off and prices in many instances stood at a figure below that of Saturday's close. Buying at the bottom steadled the market somewhat, and during the remainder of the day trading was dull at prices slightly above the lowest.

The market was subjected to varying influences during the day. New developments were not of sufficient import, however, to account for the wide range of fluotuations except on the assumption that trading was on a thin and unsubstantial basis. United States Steel was made the pivot of buil operations in the morning, on a revival of reports of trade improvement, especially in connection with the advance in the price of wire products. This was accepted as proof that certain branches of the steel and fron industry were in a much better technical position than had been generally supposed, and the sympathetic influence of the advance in Steel shares was felt by the entire list. Later in the day United States Steel was used as effectively as the center of operations in a bear movement, when word came from Washington that a resolution should be entire list. Later in the day United States Steel was used as effectively as the center of operations in the house. Word that no action had been taken on the resolution helped to steady prices in the later trading.

Interborough-Metropolitan was weak throughout the trading because of the length Valley and the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis ralicade, showing further substantial decreases in net earnings, also exercised a depressing influence, w

DIET THE SECRET

IN TRAINING ATHLETES. Keep the Mind Right, Too-Dart-mouth's Athletic Coach Denies Harm-ful Results in Later Years.

"Not one man in ten has the remotest idea of how to properly train for athletic events. They don't know how to work. Proper dieting and the correct care of the body and the mind are two things that the great majority of athletes have not the slightest conception of," says Harry Hillman, athletic coach at Dartmouth. "It is not an unusual thing to hear of some former athlete who has gone bad physically. People hear of these cases and immediately declare that athletics is not a good thing for our young men. But you will notice that the men who break down are always those who haven't good thing for our young men. But you will notice that the men who break down are always those who haven't been good performers, and there's a good reason why this is so. The men who have been stars are those who started out with correct ideas of how to train, while the ones who have broken up physically all started their athlatic careers without the least knowledge of the subject.

"Take the runners—they are mostly young fellows who overdo their preparatory work, eat the wrong foods and have their meals at irregular hours, all of which is bound to tell when they give up training and settle down to business. Perhaps ten years will elapse before they feel the results of incorrect training, and then, you will notice, it is usually their stomachs that go wrong." Hillman says that half the athletes know no more about proper dieting than does the average two year old child. They eat big meals just before going out to compete, no matter what time of the day it may be. That's the worst thing an athlete can possibly do, because it takes at

matter what time of the day it may be. That's the worst thing an athlete can possibly do, because it takes at least three hours for ordinary food to properly digest, and it is a terrible strain on the stomach to do any running when it is filled.

"Draw up one of your legs and you will notice that the abdominal muscles are brought into tull play," says Hillman, adding that a man should partake of nothing heavier than a couple of soft boiled eggs or a fittle toast and tea before competing in an athletic event. "Outdoor work is best because it af-"Outdoor work is best because it affords good air, allowing the lungs to

The Dartmouth coach believes that club athletes who run at least twice a week indoors are apt to contract diseases because of the fine-drawn conditions. eases because of the nne-drawn condi-tion that they are sure to attain. Col-lege men, though, must do a great deal of indoor work because they have only two months in the open air. Only the most vigorously constituted are able to run during the indoor season. Bonhag, the greatest distance runner in the country, is a fair example," says Hiliman. Bonhag comes out and does a lot of running toward the close of the indoor season, but he always takes at least two months' rest before he even starts training for the outdoor games.

TAKES BIG MONEY TO GET INTO BASEBALL Must Have Fat Bankroll at the Present Day.

The time for the ex-ball player to break into the game has practically passed, for while it was no difficult matter to break into class A ball, or even major league ball, a few years ago, now it takes a large sum of money to get control of a minor league franchise, and the player is shy on putting his savings for a franchise where he is not dead sure for the returns. The ball player is the one individual who fully appreciates the difficulty of developing a winner, especially without a liberal use of money, and then failure may come to both brains The time for the ex-ball player t then failure may come to both brains and money until even the wealthy magnates often tire of the proposition. The Beston Americans figured that The Boston Americans figured that $40,000 was ample to start business with ten years ago. Now the same club must figure on half a million dollars to build a new plant. Leased grounds for ten or twenty years was a long term for a ball park a few years ago. Now no major league club could afford to build a magnificent plant on leased grounds, and first figures on buying a large tract of land convenient to the business part of the city as possible. It takes double the land for a ball park it did twenty years ago, as the stands must be double and triple the size, until the investment is a serious business proposition, and considered only for those having absolute faith in the stability of the game as a great national amusement where the public can be entertained in the open air at popular prices. air at popular prices.

CARL MORRIS IS A REAL "HOPE." Philadelphia Sport Thinks the Western Giant is the Man.

William McCarney, an experienced judge of pugillsis, who is also a boxing promoter in Philadelphia, is one of the first eastern sporting men to personally inspect Carl Morris, the Okiahoma Giant. McCarney saw Morris kneck out Marvin Hart at Sapulpa and has come home with a glowing account of the big fellow's prowess. "Morris is a real hope," says McCarney. "He is a matural fighter. A giant in physique, he is the hardest hitter I've ever seen. He is wonderfully fast on his feet in spite of his size and waight, and knows how to take punishhment. He is so big and strong that I don't believe a man living can hurt him. In fact he looks like a coming champion, and with careful handling he will soon be in the front rank. Pve seen all the big fellows for the past 20 years, Jeffries, Corbett, Sullivan, Fitzsimmons, Sharkey, Johnson and others, but this giant Morris is the most dangerous of them all. He will be the one to beat Johnson as sure as I'm alive. William McCarney, an experienced

NOISY CROWD QUEERED THE FIGHT

New Haven Chief of Police Stops Shea-Houck Go in Eleventh Round.

New Haven, Jan. 23.—At the close of the eleventh round of a fast fight between Tommy Houck of Philadelphia and Joe Shea of Waterbury, before the Rome Athletic club tonight. Chief of Police Cowles jumped into the ring and declared that there would be no more boxing. During the fight, which was to have gone fifteen rounds. Chief Cowles repeatedly warned the spectators about yelling while the men were boxing and threatened several times to stop the bout, but the crowd continued to be noisy and the proceedings were stopped. Up to the eleventh Shea had outpointed Houck, but the latter was devoting his time to infighting and was doing lots of damage when the fight closed.

In the preliminaries Joe Marcks of Highwood outpointed Kid Murphy of this city, in a twelve-round go, and Charley Doberty of New Haven and Dave Ryan of Bridgeport went ten rounds to a draw.

Salary Cut Scatters Tri-Staters.

As a result of the cut in the salary limit of the Tri-State league, many star players who cannot be kept under the limit of $1,300 and the individual limit of $175 a month, are being signed by New York State league marnagers. Utica has secured Shortstop Durmeyer and Second Baseman Edward Shortell of the Altona team; Scranton has obtained Mike Joyce, the outfielder, from Lancaster; Elmira has bought Pitcher Harry Teal from the Altona team, and Uica has bought Shortstop Marhefka from the Williamsport team. Lancaster has sold Catcher Cadman to the Omaha team. A number of other deals are now under way, and there will be a general weeding out of the high priced players in the league.
